A time to get busy

With Spring arriving this week, officially, and weatherwise, the time has come for us all to do some annual cleanup around our residences, businesses and community.

It has been a long, cold and wet winter as we all know, and according to reports, one of the wettest on record. Next week, our Communities will have visitors from throughout the state and nation for the Annual Gulf Coast Spring Pilgrimage in Hancock County. If, over the weekend, all of us get busy and get the rakes, brooms, lawnmowers out and do some cleaning up of our yards, it would be a big help to our image. Another way we can help a lot would be by doing a little picking up of the debris and trash on the streets in the vicinity of our residences and businesses. It has been a long winter as we have mentioned, and the litter bugs, well they have been pretty busy. As fast as the county and city crews clean up the streets, they are again covered by litter by the careless, and we have a tendency to feel a lot of the so-called careless are our friends and neighbors.

Pride in our communities is lacking in certain areas, and the biggest lack of pride comes in the way we litter our streets.

We feel the time is now for us to reverse a trend which makes our communities look like we do not give a care.

If everyone of us do a little in cleaning up our areas, maybe the guilty culprits will get the message.

We hope to see a lot of you out this weekend, doing your part in making our's a cleaner community.

Service van delivery marks Red Cross Month

By ELLIS CUEVAS Unveiling of "Red Cross Mobile 601," a new disaster relief services van, highlighted the March American Red Cross Month meeting of that group's Hancock County Chapter.

The Red Cross is a United Way funded program in Hancock. Pat Cheney reported at a Thursday meeting the organization received a total of 4,000 from the United Way, with its to budget for 1979 set at $5,962.

Ed Friloux, Hancock chapter chairman for 1979, reports there is a need for all types of volunteers to help the local group perform the many services offered.

'We can give just about any person a job to do, and they can be a big help to our community," Friloux said.

Highlight of the meeting was the unveiling of "Red Cross Mobile 601." a disaster van.

The van carries first aid and it will be used to respond to emergency disasters within the county. In addition to first aide the vehicle will serve coffee, cold drinks and sandwiches in time of emergencies to workers and victims.

"Whenever there is a big disaster and emergency personnel such as firemen. police and volunteers are on duty for several hours they have a tendency to get hungry and thirsty and this is where Red Cross Mobile 601 will benefit the community," stated Friloux.

Ms. Thelma Kergosien, executive secretary for many years in Hancock, has her office in the Civil Defense office in the Valena C. Jones complex, where she is available from 9 to 12 Monday

The office number is 467-4071 and if no answer, call 467-5045 or 467-6208. Someone is on call at all times for servicemen's emergency leaves, reaching out programs, etc. The reaching out program, Ms. Kergosien reports, is for veterans needing government assistance to finish school.

Brother Ledet, S.C. reported there will be advanced life saving classes between 5-6 p.m. starting the Tuesday after Easter for three or four weeks at the St. Stanislaus swimming pool. The classes will be held Monday through Brother Ledet said there will also be swimming classes June through August at St. Stanislaus for all ages under the

There will be special classes for the physically handicapped in swimming with dates to be announced.

Other swimming classes will be conducted throughout the county during the summer.

A relatively new program under the local Red Cross chapter in cooperation with Hancock General Hospital Auxiliary, is the loan of wheel chairs, crutches, hospital beds, etc. to persons not able to afford for them.

With the approach of summer and so much boating in the county, there will be small boating instructions offered if enough interest is shown, and an instructor can be found.

Friloux reports the local Red Cross Chapter has instructors for numerous first aide classes. Classes such as Cardio Pulminary Resuscitation Vital Sings One and Two are offered throughout the year.
A program which many young parents benefit from, according to Friloux, is the Parenthood Instruction offered by the Red Cross.

Ms. Kergoslen reports interested citizens can also belp by sending donations to the Red Cross during the month of March. A donation of $1-$4 is for regular memberships; sustaining memberships are $5-$19; development membership, $20-$90; and award memberships, $100 or more.

Donations can be sent to The American Red Cross, Hancock County Chapter, Bay St. Louis 39520.

One of the very important programs sponsored by the Red Cross in Hancock is the Blood Drawing according to Friloux. "It is wonderful to see so many volunteers giving their blood and time for such an important community service," allowed Friloux.

Ms. Kergosien said, "The American Red Cross is available to serve the people of Hancock County in time of emergencies, as many will remember their aide during Hurricane Camille aftermath Big emergencies or small emergencies, if anyone has any questions, please give us a call."

Hancock's first annual Special Olympics slated

Special education students from the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate and the Hancock County School Districts will be competing in the first Hancock County Special Olympics Track and Field Meet, Saturday at St. Stanislaus Stadium, Bay St. Louis.

The event, sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Junior Auxiliary, will begin with parade ceremonies at 9 a.m.

"The Bay St. Louis Junior Auxiliary feels many people have not had an opportunity to attend previous District III or State Special Olympics, and is making an effort to afford parents, friends and interested persons the chance to see just what a Special Olympics is all about," said Mary M. Perkins and Suzanne Truett, cochairmen of the event.

"We urge the public to view firsthand a Special Olympics anytime from 9 a.m. until approximately 4 p.m.," said Perkins.

"This Special Olympics is a preliminary to District and State Olympics that many of our Hancock County students have placed in each year. Therefore we felt it only fair to give them a chance to compete at home." said Truett.

Events scheduled include 50 meter dash: 220 meter and 440 meter run; 440 relay; softball throw; high jump, broad jump, and other special events.

A concession stand will be open for Shinch There is no admission charge to the meet.

Other organizations assisting in sponsorship in the meet will be the South Hancock County Kiwanis, the Bay St. Louis Jaycees, the Phi Kappa group, various bands, cheerleaders and individuals.

Vandalls hit Port Bienville field office

By LESLIE WILLIAMS A field office at the Port Bienville Industrial Park was broken into and vandalized this week, reports Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission Director Wilson Webre.

"The vandals broke the lock on the field office door, slashed three tractor tires and stole 46 quarts of motor oil," said webre.

"There are a lot of pine trees out here," exclaimed Webre Tuesday, "I wish the vandals would have gone out and slashed the pine trees, and saved us some money.

Losses are estimated at $750 said Webre. The stolen and damaged property was not insured. Webre estimated the vandals per-petrated their acts of destruction at approximately 10:30 p.m. Monday. Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Ladner said Tuesday Deputy Dennis Tartavoulle is investigating the case. There are very few burglaries or vandal cases reported at the Port Bienville site, the sheriff noted.

Both Ladner and Webre said they had no idea why someone slashed the tractor tires.

Massive altars loaded with seafood, cakes, and bread was erected outdoors for the Waveland family and guests and dominated the dining room of the Niolet home as guests and family as well as the public admired the feast and joined in the celebration.

St. Joseph's Day, according to history, dates back to the middle ages and originated in Sicily.

Farming was the most important industry for the Italian families residing on Sicily, and periodic famines and droughts would occur and cause an extreme food shortage.

With so many people starving, the Sicilians ultimately turned to their catholic faith to seek a solution to the famine and starvation.

The people looked to St. Joseph, the traditional saint of families, to intercede and assist them so they might have successful crops.

Tradition says St. Joseph answered the prayers and supplied the Italian families with food.

The Sicilians decided to make offering of the most precious possession they had...food...in honor of St. Joseph. In keeping with tradition at the Pass Christian altar, people portraying St. Joseph, Jesus, and the Virgin Mary feasted upon one bite of each dish on the altar during the onset of the holiday

At the Niolet festivities, Joe Cheniche of Bay St. Louis portrayed St. Joseph; Leslie Girling, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Girling of Pass Christian portrayed the Virgin Mary; and Jesus was portrayed by ten-year-old Robbie Gates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Gates of Long Beach.

The three partook of a sample of each dish on the altar, after which the food was served to all present.

An 84-year-old statue of St. Joseph adorned the upper altar.

The statue was given to Mrs. Niolet by her grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. F. LaRosa Sr., who received the figurine from St. Thomas Catholic Church in Long Beach.

Food which was included on the altar were pignolate, forms of crosses, hearts, and other various shapes. These are a hard, fried, glazed pastry.

Fig cookies, deep-fried artichoke stalks, Phinoche and spaghetti, and lucky beans, or sweet cookies also adorned the altar.

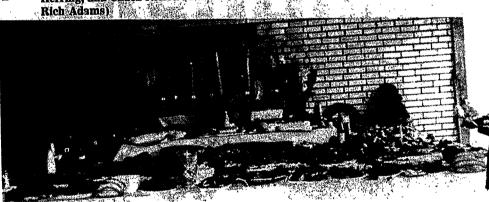

No meat is served on St. Joseph's Day, as the feast was originally celebrated after a famine, when no meat was available.

The Niolet altar featured a large redfish, baked and stuffed with crab-

Contemporary altars are usually prepared to thank St. Joseph for receipt of a special intention of a family.

An Illinois man and an Opelausas, La. woman were released from Hancock County Jail Wednesday evening on $350 bond after they gave false statements to Hancock County lawmen concerning an alleged kidnapping hoax Tuesday Night.

Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Ladner said Wednesday his deputies were called to the Diamondhead exit of I-10 at 10 p.m. Tuesday by a woman claiming a man was tied and gagged in the middle of the exit.

Deputies Ronnie Farrell and Willie Harrington responded to the call, and found Richard M. Corn, 41, 105 S. Eighth St., St. Joseph, Ill., in the road with his hands and feet tied and adhesive tape over his eyes and mouth, according to the sheriff.

Ladner said the deputies untied Corn and called Mobile Medic. They deputies reported that Corn was unable to speak, and could only blink his eyes.

Ladner, Chief Deputy Ronnie Peterson; and Highway Patrolman Mike Cox went to the scene, where Ladner reported they were able to ascertain that Corn was saying he had allegedly been robbed and gagged.

Corn was taken to Gulfport Memorial for treatment, according to the sheriff. Ladner said an investigation early Wednesday morning produced discrepancies in the story of the woman who said she found Corn tied in the

After questioning, Ms. Marie W. Richard, 30, Rt. 5 Box 634, Opelousas. La., signed a statement saying that the incident was a hoax to get Corn back to his wife, whom he had allegedly abandoned March 19.

Corn also signed a statement, in which he says he wanted to return to his wife and job.

In his statement he says he was on his way to Champaign, Illinois, on March 19, where he is a salesman with the R.W. Mitchell Company.

Ms. Richard said she has known Corn for 2.5 years, and she previously, worked for him in Opelausas

"I went to meet him (Corn) in Baton Rouge, La. and found he couldn't go through with leaving his wife and family," Richard's statement reads.

of Kiln F&W District tax By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Levy of a two mill ad valorem tax in the Kiln Water and Fire Protection District for payment of principal and interest on the system's revenue bonds has been approved by Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

The tax has been levied in the Kiln Water and Fire Protection District since about 1976 and revenues from this tax have paid for the district's operating costs, said District secretarytreasurer Billy Sills.

The Supervisors' Monday action dedicates that portion of the two-mill revenues to retirement of the revenue

Cleveland Wyatt of Kiln, chairman of the District's board of commissioners, said, the district recevied a $300,000 loan from the EmHA to construct and operate a water system in the district, and purchase a fire truck

Michael Haas, an attorney representing the district, said, the Farmers Home Administration requested a portion of the two mill tax be used to retire revenue bonds as an aditional security to insure repayment of the $300,000 loan. Hass explained, "The District wills also receive a 230,000 grant from FmHA after the loan money is exhausted."

"Some $40,000 of the loan fund was used to purchase a fire truck. Some of the revenues received from this two mill levy will pay for the fire truck now. since the Board's action," said Wyatt

"The other $260,000 in loan funds will be paid with service fees recieved from users of the water system," added the

The cost of the Water and Fire District Project should be met, in part, by the issuance of revenue bonds of the District, payable from the revenues derived from operation of its water and fire protection system. The revenue bonds shall not exceed 1300,000 and will material every period of time and to exceed 40 years states the resolution adopted by Supervisors.

The District is bounded on the north by Cuevas Junction; on the south by Interstate 10; on the east by Rotten Bayou; and on the west by Jourdan

In airport affairs, Supervisors approved a Port and Harbor resolution authorizing installation of a nondirectional-beacon at Stennis International Airport and employment of Advanced Developements Inc., a Bay St. Louis engineering firm, to perform all engineering services on the beacon.

Port and Harbor Commission Director Wilson Webre added "the firm's fee shall not exceed $4,000." Beacon, installation will accelerate general aviation activities at the airport and enhance Stennis' chances to qualify for federal funding of an Instrument Landing System, claimed

"The beacon will allow heavier and. more sophisticated planes into our Hancock County airport," added Webre.

In other Board matters: -The Board also authorized Lex Mason, Mississippi cooperative ex-tension service southern district agent, to hire a 4-H Club Hancock County youth agent to fill the recently vacated —Mrs. Debbie Anselmo requested the Board financially aid the creation of a swimming program for the handicapped in Hancock County.

Ms. Anselmo says she plans to rent two pools for the project, St. Clares pool in Waveland and South Mississippi Retardation Center pool in Long Beach. The program would begin June I and continue until August 25, she said.

Supervisors took the matter under advisement and suggested that federal funding of the project be investigated. -Beat One Supervisor Bert Courrege thanked the Hancock County Sheriff's department for recovering stolen items from the Best One Barn.

The title, "The Hazardous Hibachi," comes from a report published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, describing in detail five deaths from carbon monoxide poisoning from charcoal briquets - inside a Volkswagon bus, a trailer, a station wagon and a potato cellar. The journal article also mentioned five more deaths reported by other doctors. And a bulletin from the National Clearinghouse for Poison Control Centers reports on more than 30 deaths rom the same cause. Charcoal is perfectly safe when used as intended, in the open air or under a proper chimney or vent, such as a stovepipe or a fireplace. The charcoal briquets available in the grocery store usually carry warning on the label against use indoors or in a closed space.

One backyard chef was routed by a sudden rain squall. He carried his grill into a small tool shed to finish the cooking. His family found him dead in the shed. Carbon monoxide also is a com-

CANINE DISTEMPER There is no mistaking the misery and depression of a pet suffering from distemper. It is one of the most dreaded of all canine diseases. Puppies are susceptible to distemper than older dogs, but the disease can occur at any age.

Symptoms of canine distemper are similar to those of an upper respiratory allment.

You may notice a runny nose, flat and dry cough and loss of appetite at first. This will be followed by a high temperature, vomiting, a white crusty material around the eyes and nose, thirst and diarrhea.

In the last stages of the disease, there may be muscular twitching, convulsions or paralysis.

Canine distemper is a highly contagious disease caused by a virus that is carried through

It is more common in the hs. although a pet may contract the disease in any weather.

Canine distemper can be picked up by direct contact with another dog with distemper or from the feet, hands or clothing of the person caring for such an animal.

In fact, everything used by the distemper-infected dog may spread the disease; its cough, sneeze and urine contain virus particles that travel on air currents and can infect dogs.

To prevent distemper, it is important to have your pup vaccinated soon after it arrives from pet shop or kennel and to follow with booster shots at intervals set up by your veterinarian.

Occasionally, the protection offered by vaccination is rejected by pupples already carrying immunity obtained from nursing their mother.

Puppies receive what are known as maternal antibodies from their mother's first milk. called colostrum.

These special proteins temporarily protect the pups from specific diseases which the mother is immune to. If the mother has distemper immunity, for example, she will pass on distemper antibodies and short-term protection to her litter. There is no easy way to tell if the puppy is ready to accept a distemper vaccination.

Thus many pupples are left unprotected when their maternal antibodies disappear between 6 and 12 weeks of age. Researchers have recover as quickly as discovered that human possible. measles virus will protect canine from distemper during this intermediate period. Pupples can be immunized by a Otherwise, clean and spray combination distempermeasles vaccine whether or not maternal antibodies are

March is corn planting time for most of the state. To take advantage of soil moisture, rainfall distribution, cooler temperatures, and to minimize southwestern corn borer damage, plant as early as possible.

Most of the corn in the state should be planted by the end of March. The only exceptions are wetter bottoms that cannot be planted that early. Plant these as early as Fertilizing Winter Grazing. Ryegrass and small grain pastures have been unproductive in recent weeks because of cold weather. However, few stands have been severely damaged. With adequate warm weather (temperatures about 42 degrees) and nitrogen fertilizer, these pastures will bounce back rapidly. adequate supply of available nitrogen will help produce the growth desired. Winter grass pastures not receiving nitrogen within the last six weeks should receive about 60 pounds actual N per acre. This is equivalent to about 150 pounds of urea or 200 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre. Apply as soon as local conditions permit.

Weed Control Preemergence Corn Weed Control. Use herbicides according to need. Atrazine and simazine are hard to beat for preemergence control of weeds. Atrazine is somewhat better on large seeded broadleaf and simazine is preferred for shallow germinating annuals. A tank mix of on-half rate of each looks Both are long lasting and will give trouble to fall crops. Both are weak on johnsongrass, signalgrass, and fall pancium. Lasso greatly improves the control on these three weeds.

Sutan and Eradicane can control rhizome and seedling johnsongrass and reduce nutsedge problems. Apply and immediately incorporate to a fairly dry well-prepared Winter Weeds in Permanent Pastures. March is the kleal time to control buttercup and little barley in dormant bermudagrass pastures. One pint of Paraguat plus surfactant will control most weeds and usually does not greatly damage established white clover.

For buttercup, thistles and other broadless, apply 0.75 to 1.0 quarts of LV 2.4-D or 1 to 1.5 pints of Weedmaster (2,4-D plus dicamba). Do not use Weedmaster if it is desired to keep clovers in the pastures. Make applications well before flowering or seed formation.

Controlling Weeds in Farm Ponds. March and April are good months for controlling aquatic weeds. If March brings clear, warm days, algae can develop rapidly. Aquazine (simazine) will control a wide variety of weeds, including algae.

Several copper complexes and copper sulfate are also available and will provide good, economical algae Observe water control. temperature and hardness. sunlight requirements.

Spring Pilgrimage visits Diamondhead homes

Spring Pilgrimage continues in Hancock County Friday, March 30 as Diamondhead residents open their doors to the public. A historic cemetery is included in the annual spring event.

Rotten Bayou Cemetery, located off of Golf Club Drive in an out-of-the-way section of the exclusive housing developments, features individually fenced-in plots.

The graveyard replaces the Clyde P. Bonwell home, the first home listed in the Pilgrimage brochure.

From 11 a.m. to noon visitors will tour the cedar and brick home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Doussan Jr. at 705 Moanaula Way.

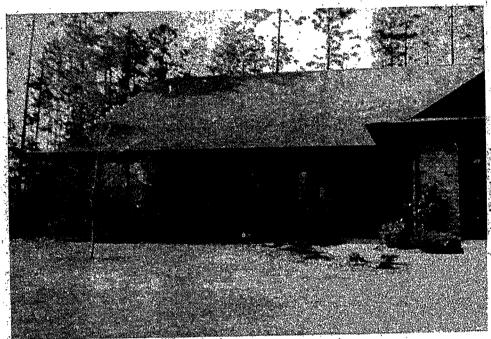

A 'Dutch-treat' lunch at the Diamondhead Country Club will follow the Doussan home Reservations are

The Pilgrimage then goes to the contemporary home of Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Dean at 6825 Hilo Street.

That home will be open for viewing from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. Closing out the event will be the English Tudor style home Col. and Mrs. Fred Roseman from 2:30 to 3:30 at -5-Koula Drive.

Impossible to enforce at best, price setting attempts have begotten revolutions and toppled dynasties in various nations for as far back in history as Egypt's fifth dynasty which historians place at 2830 B.C.

The Chinese made a stab at it as did the Greeks - and the Romans, Britains, Dutch, Indians, French, and Americans. Individually and collectively the premise failed. It violated human behavior patterns and thus was condemned from the start.

And while our contemporary U.S. regulators are sharpening their pencils to figure out the latest price fixing innovations, let's take a long look back at history's lessons as researched by Mary G. Lacy of USDA Bureau of Ag Economics back in 1923.

Her summation is: "The history of government limitation of price seems to teach one clear lesson: that in attempting to ease the burdens of the people in a time of high prices by artificially setting a limit to them, the people are not relieved but only exchange one set of ills for another which is the greater."

Among these ills are the withholding of goods from the market, division of the populations into two hostile camps, and the practical difficulties of enforcing such price limitations into two hostile camps, and the practical difficulties of enforcing such price limitations which by their very nature demand cooperation of producers and consumers.

Egypt took entire control of the grain trade and saved the people from starvation in Biblical times, but took over the land in returns

China fared somewhat better than most by working out a system of control of supply and demand which kept prices normal. China seems to have been the only country which recognized the whole price question as a symptom rather than disease itself, and came a little closer to supplying people with food at affordable prices than other nations:

Athens regulated the grain trade by legal enactment, but found herself unable to enforce them in the 4th century B.C., the same general period China was faring a little better.

In the 3rd century A.D. the Roman Emperor Diocletian struck at high prices with his famous Edict which boldly fixed prices for beef, grain, eggs, clothing, etc. with a death penalty set for violaters.

He fixed prices for over 700 items people bought as well as their wages. There was so much blood shed upon trifling accounts that the law was laid aside.

Great Britain fixed the price of bread for more than 500 years and also regulated the price of wheat, fish and wine. but all such laws were abrograted in 1815 because of

Q. What's coming out of the West? A. A coal-bearing pipeline.

Coal. Enough to fill 2,500 railroad trains, each one mile long, running all year round. Enough to make a substantial contribution to the boiler fuel needed by electric power plants in the Mid-South area.

Coal ground to a powder and mixed with water is coal slurry. It can be pumped through pipelines great distances, safely, quietly, economically, like the 1,400 miles from the Powder River Basin, Wyoming, to South Louisiana. Along the way this low-sulphur, low pollutant coal can be extracted for power plant use, the water reclaimed for use at the customer's facilities.

It's a dramatic project by the parent company of United Gas Pipe Line Company and three other partners. And it's important because it's the most economic way to get lowpollutant coal to the Gulf South.

The United States has enough coal for two centuries.

That's what makes this project really important.

Meet the Gulf Coast Brownbuilders... members of Brown & Root's worldwide learn

Brown & Root, one of the world slargest engineering and construction companies. owes much of its success over the past 60 wears to the skills and localty of its Brownbuilders

Along the Gulf Coast, Brownbuilders are designing and constructing offshore oil and gas platforms and pipelines, chemical and petrochemical plants, power plants; bridges; highways, and oil field sites. Wintever we do, wherever we do it, one thing remains the same. We recruit, hire. train; and advance as many local people as possible—Gulf Coast Brownbuilders like the ones you see here—working on Brown & Root projects throughout the Gulf Coast

It's been our policy for years to hire locally

first, so wherever Brown & Root works there are job opportunities for people qualified, willing, and ablesto work. That way local communities, counties, and states get maximum benefit from projects on which we work—in jobs, payrolls, purchases, suv-
